

SnapCoat Sales Expert

A commission-only role selling the CRM built for painting contractors — plus the AI programs that sit on top of it. Uncapped, paid monthly on money the customer has actually paid — never on a signature.

10% / 20% of collected subscription revenue — monthly / annual, in year one	$1,200 per AI Operator Program you close	$500 per white glove onboarding you complete
--	---	--

THE ONE RULE THAT GOVERNS THIS PLAN

You get paid on cash collected — every month, as it comes in.

Not on signatures, not on projections. When your customer pays, you get paid. Nothing is held back, nothing is charged back, and no one asks you to return a commission you already earned.

THE LADDER YOU SELL

STEP 01 CRM Subscription $149 – $499 / mo	STEP 02 White Glove Onboarding $2,500 one-time	STEP 03 Meta Growth Engine $2,500 + $1,500 / mo	STEP 04 AI Operator Program $10,000 + retainer
---	---	---	---

Most reps start at Step 01 and work right. The customers who climb the ladder are the ones who stay — and they are worth several times more to you than a subscription alone.

What you sell, and what it pays

Five products. Each pays differently because each is worth something different to the business. You can sell any of them to any customer, in any order.

PRODUCT	PRICE	YOU EARN
CRM Subscription Core / Pro / Elite	$149 – $499 / mo or annual prepay	10% monthly · 20% annual for 12 months. Annual pays as one lump sum.
White Glove Onboarding One-time setup engagement	$2,500 one-time	$500 (20%) paid when the customer pays, like everything else
Meta Growth Engine Done-for-you ads + landing pages	$2,500 setup + $1,500 / mo	$500 on setup $150 / mo for as long as it runs
AI Operator Program Flagship — AI employee build + 6-week coaching	$10,000	$1,200 total $600 when the deposit clears, $600 on ship day
Operator Retainer Maintenance or Growth tier	$750 – $1,500 / mo	10% monthly, ongoing $75 – $150 per client, every month

Annual pays double, on purpose

Every customer this company has ever lost cancelled inside their first 30 days (Section 02) — an annual contract makes that impossible. So an Elite annual pays $958 as one lump the week it clears, versus $598.80 dribbled across a year on monthly: 60% more, twelve months sooner. Subscription commission runs for 12 months and then stops, either way.

Accelerator

Close 5 or more new CRM subscriptions in one calendar month and every year-one rate that month gains 5 points — monthly goes 10% → 15%, annual 20% → 25%. It applies to every subscription you closed that month, not just the fifth.

How the money actually reaches you

1 You close Signed, and the account is credited to you.	2 Customer pays Their card clears. This, not the signature, triggers commission.	3 You're paid By the 10th of the next month, on everything collected.	4 It repeats Every month they stay, without selling it again.
--	--	---	--

SnapCoat Sales Expert — Compensation Plan

Page 2

Why onboarding pays — and why it pays on completion

We looked at every account that ever cancelled. The pattern was almost perfectly clean:

6 of 7

cancellations happened in the customer's first 30 days

0

customers lost after the six-week mark — they all stayed

6.8mo

longest active account, still going

Nobody leaves because the product stopped working. They leave because they never got started. That first month is the whole game — which is why onboarding is a paid product rather than a favor — and why our team delivers it rather than leaving it to chance. You sell it and earn $500 when the customer pays for it.

What a finished onboarding looks like: the customer has their crew in the system, their pricing configured, and their first proposal sent. Our team does that work — your part is selling it and making sure the customer actually turns up. That line is the difference between an account that renews for years and one that quietly disappears in week three.

It is also the fastest cash in your first 60 days. Onboarding pays out in days, while subscription commission builds month over month.

What this actually earns

Illustrative monthly income at three levels of production. Recurring lines compound — every account you keep alive still pays you next month.

MONTHLY PRODUCTION	MONTH 1	MONTH 6	MONTH 12
Building 2 subscriptions + 2 onboardings	$1,070	$1,420	$1,840
Producing 3 subs + 3 onboardings + 1 Meta, 1 Operator/qtr	$2,650	$3,920	$5,450
Top performer 5 subs + 5 onboardings + 2 Meta + 2 Operators	$6,370	$8,750	$11,590

Read this honestly: subscriptions alone will not carry you early — three Pro accounts add about $105 a month, and it stops after twelve. Onboarding at $500 each is what carries you month to month, and the AI Operator Program is what makes the role genuinely pay. Reps who sell only the CRM plateau. Reps who sell the full stack do not.

What you owe the customer

Commission is paid on money the customer actually keeps paying. That means your interests and theirs point the same direction by design — but the expectations below are explicit anyway.

YOU OWN THIS

- Honest representation. You sell what exists today. No promising features that aren't built. Mismatched expectations is the number one reason a signed account dies in week three — and a dead account pays you nothing.
- Fit. Don't sign a company the product can't serve. Because you're paid on collected cash, a bad-fit signature is worth nothing to you either.
- A clean handoff to onboarding. Our team runs the session — you get the customer to it, booked and expecting it with their pricing and crew list ready. Onboardings fail because a customer goes quiet after signing, and that part is yours.
- The first 30 days. Proactive check-ins at day 7, 14 and 30. This is the single highest-leverage thing you do all year.
- Relationship ownership. You are their first call. You route problems to support — you don't go quiet.
- Clean records. Deals and contacts logged in SnapCoat. Your attribution and your commission both depend on it.
- Pricing integrity. Published pricing. Discounts require written approval and reduce commission proportionally.

YOU DON'T OWN THIS

- Ongoing technical support. Support owns tickets. This line exists so the accounts you have already sold never quietly turn you into an unpaid help desk — your job is to sell, and we intend to keep it that way.
- Bugs and feature requests. You route them. You never promise a roadmap date.
- AI Operator delivery. The build and the six-week coaching are delivered by SnapCoat. You sell it and stay in the relationship.
- White glove onboarding delivery. SnapCoat's team configures their pricing, imports their crew and walks them to their first proposal. You sell it — you do not run it.
- Meta ad execution. Campaigns, creative and landing pages are delivered by SnapCoat.
- Collections. Past the initial close, billing is handled for you.
- Your schedule. You are an independent contractor. How, when and where you work is yours — the expectations above are outcomes, not hours.

The through-line: every obligation above is written as an outcome the customer receives, not a method you must follow. That is deliberate — it is what keeps this a genuine contractor role rather than a job with extra steps.

Terms

ITEM	TERMS
Structure	Commission only. Independent contractor (1099). No draw, no base, no cap.
Payment timing	Paid monthly, by the 10th, on cash collected in the prior month.
Chargebacks	None. Because commission follows collected cash, a cancellation simply ends future payments. You are never invoiced to return earned commission.
Refunds	If a customer is refunded in the same month a commission is paid on that payment, it is netted from the next statement. This is the only offset in the plan.
Commission window	Subscription commission runs 12 months from the account's first payment, then stops — there is no residual. Meta monthly and Operator retainer continue while the service is active and you are producing, and for 60 days after your last closed deal.
Account credit	Credited to the rep on the opportunity at the time payment is first collected. Split deals are agreed in writing before the close.
Pricing authority	Published pricing is firm. Discounting requires written approval and reduces commission proportionally.
Territory	Open. No geographic restriction. Inbound leads are assigned separately and may carry a modified rate, agreed in advance.

The short version

Sell the CRM to get in the door. Sell onboarding so the customer actually sticks — and so you get paid $500 as soon as they pay for it. Then sell the AI programs, because that is where both the customer's results and your income step up. Subscription commission runs twelve months and stops, so the full stack is what turns this into an income rather than a treadmill.

About these figures. Earnings examples are illustrative models of the commission rates in this document applied to stated production levels. They are not a guarantee, projection, or representation of what any individual will earn. Actual income depends on what you sell and on customers continuing to pay. This document summarizes a compensation structure and is not itself an offer of engagement or a contract; the executed contractor agreement governs. SnapCoat may modify this plan prospectively with written notice — changes never reduce commission already earned on cash already collected.